PARIS

Collection Spring/Summer 2014

« Ballerine »

Dance comes from the heart. Like elegance, it's a gift from the heart. For her new collection Spring/Summer 2014, Fatima Guerroul has followed the advice of the choreographer Jean Börlin: “ Our “ballets” belong to nobody; they just express the love of the future ”.

Inspired by this love of the future and the dancers' energy, Fatima Guerroul, in her own flowing lines, recreate the fairy grace of the “ballerines”, the peaceful beauty of a Watteau's scenery and of a Degas' pastel. Soft like a summer wind, sweet like the colors of Henri Matisse.

“This collection is flawless, pellucid, unclouded suggestive with a delicate touch of the finest clothes on your skin”, she explains “The rectangular forms of the garments are guided by the cut on bias witch follow the body curves and subtlety give a great freedom of mouvement and comfort, like silk muslin dresses held only by few fasteners on the side”.

Fatima Guerroul looks for the “ultra-féminité” as she says: “ It's some sort of a luxury, a hidden treasure that the silk reveals ”.

The rainbow color range, sunny yellow, orange, blue azur, emerald and fuschia, will give charm, elegance, happiness and wellbeing at the summer “ Rendez-vous”.
